West Melton NZ Native Plants Projects /Nut Point Bush Aotearoa Tipu Whakapūrero

A group for people and organisations, with an interest in re-establishing native plants across the Canterbury Plains, particularly around West Melton.

The group focusses on raising awareness and promoting native plant projects by sharing, advice and information and providing educational activities for its members and guests.

Nut Point Bush

Since 2007, Nut Point Centre has focused on re-establishing native plants on the property.

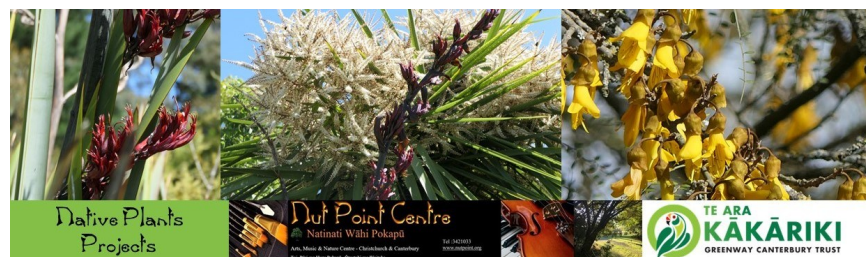

What started as a small planting project has expanded significantly.

In 2015, a major increase in planting volume was promoted with the support from Plant and Food Research.

By 2019, Nut Point began partnering with Te Ara Kākāriki for annual plantings, resulting in a Native Bush.

The site gradually developed into an amazing native bush full of biodiversity and is well worth a visit!!!

Visitors are welcome during the opening hours of the Centre , subject to weather conditions.

NPC Nut Point Centre

Nut Point Centre has been operating for over 22 years, providing activities aligned closely with the community; offering support to Visual Arts, Chamber Music and charitable fundraising.

John Allan, a clay sculptor, established a small art studio and gallery in 2002 on a rundown lifestyle property in West Melton, near Christchurch.

In 2004, a local artist approached John about exhibiting her work in the gallery. This evolved to organising a group exhibition for local artists.

The inaugural “West Melton Art Exhibition” was held in an old, open hay shed with a few artists.

Although small, the event was a success and became an annual fixture.

Though initially established as a visual arts venue, classical chamber music was featured right from the start, as part of the opening of each exhibition.

By late 2006, renovations to the property allowed Nut Point Centre to better accommodate indoor activities.

Music quickly became a central feature of the programming.

Since 2007, the centre developed an annual programme with four series:

Classical Series: Featuring classical chamber music.

Special Events Series: Hosting art events and charity music events, primarily supporting animal welfare

Student Concerts Series: Showcasing talented students from schools and top private teachers in Christchurch.

Music Delights Series: Featuring jazz and other interesting genres.

The annual programme hosts on average 25-30 Art and Music events.

Art Awards

Over the years, Nut Point Centre has secured sponsorships from various organizations and businesses to fund Art Awards.

In recent years, it solely funds the Awards at the annual West Melton Art Event.
